

Peer Services

What are Peer Services?

Facing mental health and/or substance use issues can be hard. If you or if your child are dealing with this, talking with someone who knows what you are going through can help. Peer providers are trained to share their journey to recovery and can help you with your recovery too. This can mean working with you to build a circle of support you can count on.

There are two types of Peer Services:

1. Peer Support Service is for adults with mental health and/or substance use issues. They will support you as you find your path to recovery. This service can help you to live a healthier life in your community.
2. Family Support Partners is for caregivers of youth with mental health and/or substance use issues. They have had real life experiences parenting a child with mental health and/or substance use issues. Caregivers of a youth with these concerns may get help from someone who understands. They can help find resources to support the youth and their family.

Can I get Peer Supports Services?

Ask your provider if they offer Peer Support or Family Support Partner Services or call Magellan at 1-800-424-4046 to learn what peer support is available to you.
